Greenbelt City Council Meets With School Board Member

by Matthew Arbach

Board of Education Member Jonathan Briggs joined his worksession with council via Zoom.

District 2 Prince George's County Public Schools (PGCPS) Board of Education member Jonathan Briggs met with the Greenbelt City Council in a September 25 worksession to give a summary of the current operations, concerns and policies for Greenbelt schools in this new school year. Stephenie Arcido from the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) was also on hand to share the group's latest efforts.

This is the third year in office for Briggs, who expressed that he endeavors to create an honest partnership with all the schools in his purview and develop a bridge between students, parents and staff to improve and ensure the best educational outcome.

Briggs explained that the Board is tasked with overseeing PGCPS' fiscal, governance and operational policies and, along with Superintendent Millard House II, is responsible for the system's day-to-day functions. House is in effect the sole employee of the Board and is subject to their evaluation.

Greenbelt includes six of District 2's 17 schools, with an overall student population of over 15,000.

Shortages

Teacher shortages continue to be both a local and national issue, Briggs said. He stated See SCHOOL BOARD, p. 8

Reparations Commission Invites Community to Forum on Oct. 12

by Gail Crichlow

The Greenbelt Reparations Commission (GRC) will hold its second public forum on Saturday, October 12 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Greenbelt Library auditorium. The forum will update residents on the progress of the commission and will hear thoughts on this issue from the community. The forum is open to all Greenbelt residents.

The GRC was approved by vote in 2021 by Greenbelt Resolution 2024 to make recommendations for reparations for Indigenous and African American residents of Greenbelt who have experienced harms. After the Greenbelt City Council interviewed and appointed 21 voluntary commissioners, the group began meeting in February 2023. Since then the GRC has identified its goals, organized a governing structure, established appropriate subcommittees to address its mission, interviewed local historians to gain background on the history of the area and the New Deal construction of Greenbelt, interviewed residents (ongoing), interviewed indigenous representatives and identified areas needing expert research and development that will move the GRC into Phase II of in-depth research. Phase II will include legal reviews of codes and ordinances, genealogical examinations of those who worked on the initial construction of Greenbelt and exploring the employment history of the city.

The GRC wants to inform the community on their activities and progress and to hear from residents in order to foster dialogue and exchange ideas.

What Are Reparations?

In relation to the work being done by the GRC: Reparations is a process of repairing and healing from the harms that have been inflicted on African Americans and Indigenous People by government laws, policies and practices of sectors that benefited from the injustices such as banks, corporations, insurers, educational institutions, health systems and religious groups.

For those who can't attend on Saturday, the commission will be hosting more public forums in the coming months. Email the commission at myoung@greenbeltmd.gov for further information.

PGFD Investigates Delayed Response; Suspends Personnel

by Anna Bedford-Dillow

On September 23, a fire alarm resulted in the dispatch of emergency vehicles to Green Ridge House on Ridge Road in Greenbelt. The equipment came from West Lanham Hills – five miles away. Firehouses in Greenbelt (0.7 miles), Berwyn Heights (2.2 mile) and College Park (3.9 miles) all considerably closer, were apparently unable to respond (perhaps because the career firefighters have been withdrawn as reported earlier). Distances are Google's "fastest" routes point to point. Prince George's Fire Department's (PGFD) Director of Public Information Alan Doubleday reports the total time from dispatch to on-scene was 14 minutes and 32 seconds, although a longer response time was reported by residents (see response-time explanation on page 6).

Doubleday informed the News Review that because of the slow response, it has launched a formal internal investigation. Meanwhile it has suspended two of the volunteer firefighters who responded to the call from the West Lanham Hills Volunteer Fire Department but has not provided any explanation of why a closer station was unable to respond.

According to Doubleday the firefighters failed to meet the turnout time requirement (the time from accepting a call to leaving) and proceeded to Green Ridge House without using emergency lights and sirens, which were turned on only when they got to Ridge Road, resulting in a delayed response. The engines are equipped with cameras, similar to body cameras worn by police officers, but mounted on the dashboard, enabling the fire department to see what takes place on the scene and inside the vehicles, explained Doubleday. Only two

GAFC Indoor Pool Projected To Close June to October 2025

by Daniel Thies

Major construction is slated for the Greenbelt Aquatic & Fitness Center (GAFC) indoor pool in 2025, projected to last from June to October 2025, during which time the indoor pool will be closed.

This isn't the first time that the GAFC pools have been renovated, or even the first time in the 2020s. Earlier this year, the indoor pools were closed temporarily for minor repairs, and structural remediation was done for the outdoor pools in 2022. This new renovation will be more substantial though: $1.65 million is set aside to pay for the remediation of a large portion of the indoor pool deck, which will take several months. However, the city is taking steps to minimize the impact that the project will have on city residents.

Although the indoor pool will be inaccessible to the public for four months, the city is considering extending the seasonal operation of the outdoor pool through October so residents will continue to have access to that pool. The project contract also keeps construction equipment and material off public parking spaces to prevent Roosevelt Center's parking areas from becoming obstacle courses. Though the remediation plans include concrete demolition, the construction crew will also make sure that no debris is left and the indoor areas are in

Impact of Losing Our Local Fire Department

At 10:24 a.m., a call arrived at Central Station regarding an emergency at 22 Ridge Road, Greenbelt (Green Ridge House Apts.). Central Station promptly contacted Fire Board. Fire Board dispatched at 10:26 a.m. By 10:27 a.m., Central Station contacted Community Manager Kimberly Potts about the dispatch, who confirmed it. The Fire Department arrived on the scene at 10:41 a.m., resulting in a total response time of 15 minutes. This delay has become increasingly concerning, particularly in light of the absence of a local fire department.

The loss of our local fire department has been profoundly felt within the community, especially given that this property serves seniors. Previously, we enjoyed rapid response times, often within just a few minutes, which provided a crucial sense of security for our vulnerable population. The ability to rely on nearby firefighters meant that emergencies could be addressed swiftly, reducing potential damage and safeguarding lives.

Now, with a distant fire department responding to emergencies, we face delays that can have serious consequences. The longer wait time not only puts property at risk but also jeopardizes lives, particularly those of our senior residents, who may require immediate assistance in critical situations. The unfamiliarity of distant responders with our local area can further exacerbate these delays, complicating navigation and response strategies.

Moreover, the absence of a local fire department has diminished community trust and safety perceptions. Residents no longer feel the same level of protection and support that came from having a dedicated, nearby team ready to respond. This situation calls for urgent re-evaluation of our fire services, highlighting the importance of reinstating a local fire department to ensure that our community feels secure and prepared for emergencies. In a world where every second counts, especially for our senior residents, we must prioritize swift and effective emergency responses to protect our most vulnerable citizens and their homes.

We are fortunate that this time it was not an actual fire but a piece of equipment that failed. The equipment in question was replaced the next day, and all systems are now functioning normally. However, this incident serves as a stark reminder of the critical need for reliable local emergency services to safeguard our community.

Different Response Times

The Green Ridge House manager reports a call time of 10:24 a.m. and an on-scene arrival of 10:41 a.m. (17 minutes later). She records a total response time of 15 minutes. The Prince George's County Fire Department reports a response time of 14 minutes and 32 seconds. Several residents have reported a longer time. To better understand the different ways time can be measured from different points see our article on page 6.

Act of Kindness

Turtle Rescue: on Saturday, September 28, at the intersection of Crescent Road and Kenilworth Avenue, a baby turtle was crossing the road and a woman got out of her car and picked up the turtle and moved it over to the grass near the woods.

This is one of the many reasons I like Greenbelt, because people go out of their way to help wildlife.

The fire alarm at Green Ridge House on Monday, September 23 occurred at approximately 10:26 a.m. The 11:18 a.m. call recorded from Green Ridge House the same morning was a 911 call for a medical emergency that followed the fire alarm.

On Screen at Greenbelt Cinema

Lee

This directorial feature from award-winning cinematographer Ellen Kuras portrays a pivotal decade in the life of American war correspondent and photographer, Lee Miller (Kate Winslet). Miller's singular talent and unbridled tenacity resulted in some of the 20th century's most indelible images of war, including an iconic photo of Miller herself, posing defiantly in Hitler's private bathtub. Miller had a profound understanding and empathy for women and the voiceless victims of war. Her images display both the fragility and ferocity of the human experience. Above all, the film shows how Miller lived her life at full throttle in pursuit of truth, for which she paid a huge personal price, forcing her to confront a traumatic and deeply buried secret from her childhood.

Megalopolis

In this Roman epic set in an imagined Modern America, the City of New Rome must change, causing conflict between Cesar Catilina (Adam Driver), a genius artist who seeks to leap into a utopian, idealistic future, and his opposition, Mayor Franklyn Cicero (Giancarlo Esposito), who remains committed to a regressive status quo, perpetuating greed, special interests and partisan warfare. Torn between them is socialite Julia Cicero (Nathalie Emmanuel), the mayor's daughter, whose love for Cesar has divided her loyalties, forcing her to discover what she truly believes humanity deserves.

Witness for the Prosecution

The affable Leonard Vole (Tyrone Power) is being tried for the murder of a wealthy woman, and legendary lawyer Sir Wilfrid Roberts (Charles Laughton) has chosen to represent him. Unfortunately, Leonard's alibi depends on the testimony of his callous wife, Christine (Marlene Dietrich), who, after the discovery of a legal loophole, makes the shocking decision to appear in court against him. To Sir Wilfrid's surprise, this is only the first in a series of puzzling revelations and reversals.

Thomas J. Payne

Thomas and Barbara Payne

Thomas Joseph “Tom” Payne died peacefully at his home in Greenbelt on September 20, 2024. Tom was born on January 9, 1948, and was raised in Riverdale before moving to Hyattsville. He attended St. Jerome’s Catholic Parochial School through grades 1 to 8 and graduated from DeMatha Catholic High School, class of 1966. He was a computer operator for many years and worked in a security role at Leisure World before retiring.

Tom married Barbara Eshelman, who was originally from Essex, Md., on September 28, 1985. Tom and Barbara enjoyed traveling together with trips to Arizona, Maine, Nevada and Canada, as well as many local areas within Maryland. They also enjoyed participating in volksmarches in their younger years together. They shared a mutual love of the many cats they rescued during their married years and especially their last feline companions, Shieba and Frisky. They enjoyed their tight-knit community in Old Greenbelt, surrounded by many wonderful neighbors and friends, and they would often attend neighborhood celebrations and events.

Tom enjoyed traveling on ski trips and getting out on the slopes, as well as swimming at the YMCA in his younger years and walking whenever he could get outdoors. He also had a love of history.

He was an active member of the Catholic Church, attending St. Mark the Evangelist Catholic Church in Hyattsville as well as St. Hugh of Grenoble Catholic Church in Greenbelt. For several years, he assisted with the Meals on Wheels program, delivering food to the homebound. His family and friends will remember Tom for his kindness and sincerity, his devotion to his Catholic faith and his unending love of animals.

Tom was predeceased by his wife Barbara; his parents Howard Brent Payne and Florence Josephine Payne of Hyattsville; his older siblings, Richard B. “Dick” Payne and Margaret E. “Peggy” (Payne) McConnell. Tom is survived by his older brother, John F. Payne (Susan), of Centreville, Md.; as well as nieces, nephews, great-nieces and one great-nephew.

A mass of Christian Burial will be held on October 14, 2024, at St. Hugh of Grenoble, 135 Crescent Road at 11 a.m. Interment will follow at Gate of Heaven Catholic Cemetery, 13801 Georgia Avenue in Silver Spring.

Mark Price

Mark Wayne Price

Mark Wayne Price died on September 28, 2024, in Hagerstown. Mark was a beloved husband, dedicated father, cherished son, brother, uncle and friend.

Mark dedicated many years of his life to the publishing industry before spending the last 16 years at Frederick Community College, positively impacting the lives of countless individuals along the way. His commitment to his career was just one reflection of the diligence and passion that characterized his life.

A proud graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School, Mark held strong connections with his family and friends. He often reminisced about the joyful summers spent visiting his sister and family in Myrtle Beach, S.C., a place that always felt like home and where he had envisioned retirement with his wife, Leslie, and their daughter, Kelli.

Family was everything to Mark. He was preceded in death by his father Eugene Price and his brother Lenny. He is survived by his wife of 29 years, Leslie Price; his daughter, Kelli Price; his mother, Elizabeth Price; and his sisters, Wanda Mooney, Sharon Price, and Donna Price. His pride and joy will forever be his beautiful daughter Kelli, whom he often spoke of with overwhelming love. She was known to all, thanks to her father’s unwavering admiration and pride.

He loved to bowl with family and friends, bringing people together for friendly competition and cherished memories. An avid football fan, he remained a dedicated supporter of The Washington Commanders, often sharing his enthusiasm for the game with those around him.

Friends and family are invited to pay their respects during the viewing at Gasch’s Funeral Home, on October 3, 2024, from 11 a.m. to noon, followed by the funeral service at noon. A graveside service will take place afterward at 1:45 p.m.

Condolences to the family and friends of Tom and Barbara Payne, who will be missed by their neighbors in Greenbelt and the St. Hugh’s community.

Condolences, also, to the family of Mark Wayne Price, an Eleanor Roosevelt High School alumnus. He will be remembered for his love of family, passion for football and professional dedication. Services will be held this Thursday, October 3; see the obituary for details.

PUBLIC STATEMENT REGARDING PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY FIRE/EMS SUMMER STAFFING PLAN FOR GREENBELT VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT

Greenbelt, MD - The City of Greenbelt is disappointed in the County's decision to reassign 24 career personnel from Greenbelt Station 835 on July 1, resulting in the removal of all career personnel from our Station. County Fire Chief Tiffany Green and County leadership ordered the redeployment of 55 career firefighters from Berwyn Heights, Greenbelt, Bunker Hill, and Bowie Station. We are gravely concerned with the impact in response times of emergencies in Greenbelt and our surrounding areas.

Greenbelt will continue to work in tandem with College Park and Berwyn Heights alongside County leadership in addressing our concerns and fighting for the City of Greenbelt.

of the fire department personnel who responded have been suspended; a third entered the engine as it was leaving the station and has not been suspended, Doubleday said, when asked about the number of personnel onboard. “The volunteer driver and volunteer officer have been operationally suspended for violations of multiple Fire/EMS Department Policies,” stated Doubleday.

“Since June 30, which was the start of the Summer Staffing Plan, over 943 emergency response incidents have been dispatched in Greenbelt. To date, this is the only incident in which responding Fire/EMS units have failed to meet adequate response time goals,” a statement shared by Doubleday said.

The statement did not include what the response time goals are but, in a letter to City Manager Josué Salmerón on June 7 announcing the reallocation of Greenbelt’s career firefighters, Fire Chief Tiffany Green stated that Greenbelt is “covered within eight minutes from the time of dispatch by surrounding stations within a five-mile radius, which meets a metric supported and recommended by our consultants, Fitch & Associates.” (One of the stations identified by Green is Berwyn Heights, a station that also saw its career firefighters removed and another is West Lanham Hills, the station that responded to this incident.) A 2022 Community Risk Assessment and Standards of Cover report from Fitch and Associates states, “For all fire incidents (low, moderate, high, and maximum risk), the 90th percentile of total response time for the arrival of the first due unit, staffed with a minimum of three firefighters, shall be 8 minutes and 0 seconds (urban) or 12 minutes and 0 seconds (rural).” It appears, however, that a second incident at Green Ridge House that morning also exceeded an eight minute 0 seconds response time as measured from dispatch to on scene arrival (see article below).

Though the alarm was an Automatic Fire Alarm it is treated as an emergency response because they do not know what they’ll find until they get there, says Doubleday. Within emergency responses there are varying sizes of response. An Automatic Fire Alarm receives a response of one engine. Meanwhile, something classified as a Street Alarm receives two engines and a Box Alarm receives four. There are 50 firefighters per Box Alarm. When something is reported as a Two-Alarm fire, that reflects a response requirement of two boxes, explained Doubleday.

Understanding Response Times for P.G. Fire Department Calls

Varying times have been reported for the response to the fire alarm at Green Ridge House on Monday, September 23. It must be noted that different metrics are used in calculating these times, depending on whether the beginning is set as the call time, incident creation time or engine dispatch time.

County Fire Department

Incident details from the Prince George’s County Fire Department (PGFD) show the following:

No reported call time (this is something created by Public Safety Communications rather than the Fire Department, PGFD Director of Public Information Alan Doubleday told the News Review); an incident time of 10:26:16 a.m.; a dispatch time of 10:26:53 (this is the point where the call is made over the radio and answered and when the fire department begins counting their response time); an en-route time of 10:28:48; and an on-scene time of 10:41:27. The fire department reports a response time of 14 minutes and 32 seconds. The News Review calculates their response time (measured from dispatch to on-scene arrival using their data) was 14 minutes 34 seconds.

to clarify: “This year marked the Festival’s full return, after cancellations and social distancing requirements in prior years due to Covid.”

In fact there were two post-pandemic years, notably 2022 and 2023, with full schedules of participating bands. Last year marked the Festival’s 20th Anniversary and included an exciting jam with many musicians and vocalists from past years. You could say we got lucky and that is true. Because while the pandemic may be behind us, we know Covid is still here in our community.

Taller Gates Cut Fare Evasion At Greenbelt Metro, Improve Safety

by Randy Chow

The Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) installed taller, stronger, saloon-styled fare gates at the Greenbelt Metro Station this summer. This is part of a larger initiative from WMATA to reduce fare evasion.

While the previously designed fare doors were 28 inches tall, the new 55-inch tall doors – almost half as tall as an NBA basketball hoop – are “twice as strong, and more resilient,” according to a WMATA press release. The new L-shape door panel extends over the fare gate, reducing the gaps between its openings. The swing doors are polycarbonate, which is lighter and more durable than glass.

“We have already seen a reduction in fare evasion and expect the higher gates will be more of a deterrent,” said Randy Clarke, WMATA general manager and chief executive officer.

Jordan Pascale, WMATA media relations manager, reported that before the installation of the new fare gates, Greenbelt station had about 400-500 instances of fare evasion per day. Now, it’s down to less than 70 or so.

“We aim to further reduce the number with regular fare evasion patrols at various stations by the Metro Transit Police Department,” Pascale said. “While these efforts will help deter and reduce fare evasion, we will never be able to fully eliminate the issue.”

The public’s feedback, Pascale said, has been “overwhelmingly positive” regarding the new fare gates. Fare evasion and safety are riders’ most common concerns. “When we stop people for crimes in the system, they usually have fare-evaded into the system, so by raising the gates, we’re addressing some of the top rider concerns at the same time,” Pascale said.

The reduced number of fare evasions has led WMATA to expect an increase in revenue, but at the time of this reporting, there is not a concrete estimate.

By the end of September, all stations are expected to be retrofitted with new fare gates.

“It is critical for Metro to collect as much fare revenue as possible and keep the system safe, so we have a transit system worthy of this great region,” said Clarke.

Randy Chow is a student at the University of Maryland's Philip Merrill College of Journalism writing for the News Review.

Ballot’s Question F Is On Charter Amendment

On the Prince George’s County ballot this November, in addition to five questions relating to bonds is an amendment to the Prince George’s County Charter, which is the county’s equivalent of a constitution. Question F is about county agency staffing levels, reading: “To provide that during any fiscal year, no agency of county government may exceed the number of positions for that agency as approved in the operating budget without the prior approval of the council.” The question was recommended by a Charter Review Commission in March 2022.

When Choosing the Lesser Of Two Evils Makes Sense

by Ivota Yduntu

A Greenbelter was recently overheard saying she really hated one candidate and was absolutely against his winning an election. But she was also not keen on the only other choice, so she wasn’t going to vote at all. She felt that would show where she stood.

Alas, however, not voting doesn’t show anybody anything and leads to the wrong outcome when a race is close.

Why Say This?

Logic! Let’s suppose months of searching came up with only two viable candidates for a job, Donnie and Kammie, and a committee of nine is formed to choose between them. Of the committee:

- Five people can’t stand Donnie but some of these aren’t very keen on Kammie either.
- Four inexplicably think Donnie is the best thing since sliced bread.

The Vote Is Held

Donnie’s four supporters vote for him as expected. But two of the five people who can’t stand Donnie (but don’t much like Kammie) abstain because they think a better alternative should have been available. Kammie thus gets only three of the five likely votes and Donnie wins 4 to 3 – even though the majority of the committee can’t stand him. The anti-Donnie folks are shocked that he won.

What Does This Mean?

Donnie wins because two of the nine people didn’t exercise their right to vote. He wins because, in fact, the electorate was only seven of the nine possible people (the abstentions counted for absolutely nothing). Even though the majority was against Donnie, he won because not all the majority voted.

What the two abstainers failed to realize was that a vote for Kammie was, in fact, a vote against Donnie, and that not voting for Kammie favored Donnie.

In a close race where the stakes are so high, it is crucial to be counted because not voting is actually a silent vote for the side the individual is opposed to.

County Schools Ask for Patience As Busing Improves for Some

by Kit Slack

Last week the News Review reported the school transportation experiences of several Greenbelt families. This article considers how the district is handling transportation.

Still Not Enough Drivers

Prince George’s County Public Schools (PGCPS) has attributed problems with transportation to a national bus driver shortage. That shortage continues in the county this year, with about 200 vacancies, similar to last year.

PGCPS hired 50 of its current 860 bus drivers since last October, according to Kristi Murphy Baldwin, chief human resources officer for PGCPS. At an August 29 school board meeting, Baldwin explained that 118 drivers resigned in the past school year, including 31 who retired. She said more than 40 people were currently in the process of getting their commercial driver’s license with the district’s help, and that PGCPS has started paying related expenses. Another 30 candidates are in training.

Baldwin said that her department held 40 driver recruitment events last year, including 27 in person. She is shifting the season for the driver recruitment push earlier, given the time needed for candidates to acquire a commercial license.

Driver shortages in the school system aren’t a new problem, though they deepened during the pandemic – the system was short 150 drivers in December 2019, according to a press release at that time. A 2016 report found a persistent driver shortage. Back in 2000, The Washington Post reported that PGCPS was short 100 drivers, the largest gap among area school districts.

Drivers have blamed the shortage on inadequate pay for new drivers. Minimum starting pay for new bus drivers is $21.98 per hour. Starting pay in Prince George’s County is lower than in neighboring Montgomery County, and much lower than starting Metrobus driver rates.

Improvements

At the August 29 meeting, school officials asked for patience. “We’re looking to make progress, but not promise perfection,” said Charoscar Coleman, PGCPS chief operating officer. Coleman said they were in the first week of a three-year project to improve transportation.

At the same meeting, Keba Baldwin, transportation director, spoke about a recent reorganization of school start times that should help kids get to school on time. Now the number of schools starting early (7:30 a.m.) and starting late (9:30 a.m.) is more even, according to Baldwin, which should allow more drivers to successfully complete staggered routes. School end times are less well aligned, though those too have improved, according to Baldwin.

Baldwin also pointed to success in consolidating bus routes. The number of stops in the system has gone down from 13,900 to 10,800 compared to last fall, he said, and the buses are now 62 percent full instead of 53 percent.

Baldwin said that the average one-way bus ride for students has gone up by only one minute, to 63 minutes.

PGCPS has been able to achieve these successes in part because, using a new process, the families of 7,000 students have formally opted out of PGCPS transportation, according to Baldwin. [Editor’s note: the number of students opting out may be related to unreliable service and frustration with the transportation system as parents, like some of those mentioned in last week’s article, find alternatives such as driving and carpooling when school transportation can’t get their children to and from school in a timely manner.]

However, nearly 81,000 of 124,700 enrolled students still rely on a school bus, according to an August report by the district.

Over the next three years, the system’s transportation will focus on improving four key outcomes, according to an August 26 presentation to a school board committee: decreasing routes with no drivers; getting more buses to school on time; getting more families to use the StopFinder app, which helps parents track students’ buses; and reducing the number of buses that go back to the same school to pick up a second load of children.

Baldwin said the district would report on these metrics every quarter, with the help of the transportation consultants who audited the school district last year.

What Families Say

The early mornings are difficult for students who are not getting to school on time. At the August 29 school board meeting, 7-year-old Isaiah Smith stood at the podium, hands over his mouth, as his mother played a message he had recorded: “The problem is the bus is getting me to school late, and there’s no time to eat breakfast. ... I end up being hungry all day.”

What’s more, not all students who need buses have them. A West Hyattsville parent cited safety concerns that prevent her child and others from walking to Northwestern. Her family lives just under two miles from school, too close for a high schooler to be entitled to a bus. Other students, nearly two weeks into the school year, had a bus in the morning but no assigned afternoon bus.

At least one morning bus, to Thomas G. Pullen K-8 Creative and Performing Arts School, is scheduled to arrive well after the start of school.

Overall, the morning seems to be going more smoothly than the evening. At the school board meeting parents reported children getting home two hours after the end of school because of long bus rides home, sometimes following long waits at schools for buses to arrive.

that there are many initiatives in place to address this, such as hiring fairs, certification programs, professional development efforts and the recruitment of retired teachers. Establishing adequate teacher salaries is a priority.

Having enough crossing guards is another concern. This is handled mainly by the county’s police department. Mayor Emmett Jordan expressed the challenges faced in this position as many are asked to monitor different areas in the course of a day. The Safe Passage Initiative, begun in the southern section of the county, has now been applied countywide, said Briggs.

StopFinder App

PGCPS continues to use the StopFinder app to alert parents to school bus arrivals. Upgrades have been made to increase efficiency, said Briggs, but there are still some technical issues that will need to be addressed. Some routes have been consolidated, meaning fewer drivers and more students per bus.

Recreation

Council was eager to partner the city’s recreational needs with the city’s schools, such as the use of fields. Briggs said that he would work to get the issue on the board’s upcoming agenda, explaining that the Board’s Office of General Counsel would need to weigh in as well. He understood the frustration felt by all in what Councilmember Danielle McKinney described as “a spinning conversation” for years.

Overcrowding, Teacher Ratios

The high number of “temporaries” – classrooms placed in trailers when there is insufficient space in the main school buildings – that exist at most of the city’s schools was discussed. Space shortage remains the primary factor, but Briggs said that some temporaries are being used for specialty subjects.

This led to a discussion on the need for monitoring the influx of new students to the region. This is a major factor in the need to create new school boundaries to preserve the proper student-to-teacher ratios, said Briggs. He said that this issue is being analyzed on a regular basis. While he said that no new boundaries are planned, he could not guarantee that this necessity will not arise again. Generally, such considerations begin in October with ample notice made of any changes sent in December, he told council.

Briggs stated that all future school construction projects are contained in the Educational Facilities Master Plan. These projects are under regular review, factoring in data such as student population growth, he said. He said that no new plans are in place for Eleanor Roosevelt High School (which utilizes several temporary classrooms for space). Briggs said that funding for these capital projects comes from the county.

Briggs said that, while the recent Blueprint for Maryland’s Future law contains funding for school construction, counties must often still look for alternate revenue streams. The law also seeks to cap teacher salaries at $60,000, he said.

Jordan urged PGCPS to stay in constant conversation with the county’s agencies dealing with any future developments and construction to ensure the best possible outcomes for Greenbelt. Briggs said that the Board has input on all aspects of developments. The redevelopment of Beltway Plaza was mentioned, with its likely influx of many new students to Greenbelt.

Council Approves Expenditures; Highlights Breast Cancer Rallies

by Joseph Abelardo Conaty

On Monday, September 23, Greenbelt City Council approved all-resident voting legislation (see last week’s issue). In addition, council heard petitions and requests, recognized October as Breast Cancer Awareness Month, argued over a city vehicle engine replacement, approved upfitting five police vehicles and more.

Petitions and Requests

Among multiple petitions and requests, Lois Rosado joined via Zoom to ensure that the financial request submitted by the Reparations Commission was received. The commission will need a substantial budget if they are going to move into Phase II of their work and complete it shortly, said Rosado. They will need expertise that is going to come from outside individuals, she explained. Mayor Emmett Jordan affirmed they had received the request.

Resident Frankie Fritz, of Ridge Road, was excited that a Capital Bike Share station is planned for the Greenbelt Metro that should be in operation by the end of the year. He asked the body to keep public works on that timeline, emphasizing the benefit in terms of accessibility, for those who miss the last bus, for example. “I think it would bring a lot of value to the community,” said Fritz. “And I would like to see that project completed as quickly as possible!” Jordan said there will also be a station at Hanover Parkway near Eleanor Roosevelt High School by the end of the year. “We’ve been waiting a long, long time,” said Jordan.

Breast Cancer Awareness

The next order of business was proclaiming October to be Breast Cancer Awareness Month. After receiving the proclamation from the council, Joyce Bailey, Judy Parker and Catherine Brannan invited people to a Beat the Drum Rally at Roosevelt Center on October 5 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. that will include breast cancer survivors, community advocates, local experts and local band percussionists to promote breast cancer awareness. “Eat plant-based foods, exercise regularly, limit alcohol, aim for an ideal weight,” advised Bailey. “We look forward to joining together for this important cause,” she said.

Joining via Zoom, the manager of Cancer Prevention programs at Doctors Hospital, Mini’imah Wilson said that they will hold their annual Pink Ribbon Rally at the hospital on October 5 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. “At Doctors Community Hospital we have several programs that allow women to get screenings if they are uninsured or underinsured.” There is transportation and assistance if they need help to get mammograms, said Wilson. The Pink Ribbon discussed. This will occur for the 2026-2027 school year. The current DKFI building will then be used by students of Springhill Lake Elementary School (SHL), while their new school is being built. Once it’s completed and the SHL students are relocated, the building will no longer be owned and maintained by PGCPs, said Briggs, and it may be turned over to the county. Council was keen to make use of this building and would much like to be involved in any future discussions on its purpose. Providing transportation for DKFI students to the new location is under consideration, said Briggs.

GES Internet Outage

Briggs said that House was made aware of the recent day-and-a-half internet outage at Greenbelt Elementary School (GES). The school’s phone lines only work when the internet does and there is a single landline, which meant that the phones at the school didn’t work. Briggs explained it as an outage in the Verizon network. Internet not only affects instruction but communication in and out of the building, said PTA President Jessica O’Roark, “When the internet is down, the phone lines are down,” said O’Roark. She believes the single landline in the building can be used to call out in an emergency but isn’t used to receive calls. In addition, cell phones often don’t have reception in the building due to its cinder-block construction. All present were concerned with the safety implications of this and were eager to develop new protocols to address this vital infrastructure issue and how to deal with emergencies. Briggs said he would email the superintendent about safety measures and communication protocol in those instances.

PGCPs allows cell phones in school, said Briggs, yet they are not to be used in normal circumstances during the school day. In the case of an emergency, mass autocalls are made to parents, he said. Councilmember Amy Knesel commented that this system is quite effective in her experience.

ESSER Funds

The possible use of the remaining approximately $780 million of the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief (ESSER) funds was raised by resident John Appiah-Duffell. The deadline for allocation is September 30. If not allocated, these funds return to the federal government. Briggs said that as the PGCPs budget has already been ratified, that opportunity for use has likely ended.

Arcido said that ACE is eager to partner with all Greenbelt schools to provide assistance in any areas not fully addressed by PGCPs. ACE provides grants in several areas, like winter clothing. Briggs said that he would be happy to be a conduit for such efforts.

He also emphasized that he is always available for questions and concerns. Constituents can reach him via the PGCPs webpage and sign up to receive his newsletter.

Where Are Our Kids?

PGCPs is prioritizing continued rollout of the StopFinder app. The district has used a bus route app of some kind since at least 2019.

Parents noted that the PGCPs StopFinder app seemed to be finally working, even in the first weeks of school. The app, introduced in August 2021, shows parents where their child’s bus is on its route. Parents can set up alerts that tell them when the bus arrives at school or at their bus stop. However, some parents also reported watching in the app as their bus went back to the school or the transportation lot, skipping their child’s stop.

Coleman said the school district needs StopFinder in part because of the call volume, sometimes 6,000 calls a day in the first few weeks. Even with extra seasonal staff and an average call time of five minutes, PGCPs can only process 2,000 calls in the morning and 2,000 calls in the afternoon. Call wait times are one hour this time of year.

School board members passed along parents’ complaints that buses were not properly synced to the StopFinder app. Staff said PGCPs is reviewing that problem twice a day with an aim to make rapid progress.

“It takes time for improvement to take root and become routine,” Coleman said, citing the large number of staff participating in the StopFinder rollout.

Council and Community Discuss Armory, Safety, Greenbelt Living

by Julian Dowling Ford

At the Senior Citizens Advisory Committee’s annual Open Forum on Saturday, September 21, Mayor Emmett Jordan and some of the Greenbelt City Councilmembers discussed the pros and cons of day-to-day living in Greenbelt with several community members, addressing contracting issues, crime and recent acquisitions by the city.

The annual Open Forum, at the Community Center, saw Committee Chair Mary Wade and Committee Member Betty Timer write comments from the crowd on the whiteboard. The committee, which has been active in Greenbelt for over two decades, held the meeting with the stated purpose of voicing the concerns of the community to council.

In attendance along with Jordan were Councilmembers Danielle McKinney, Jenni Pompei, Silke Pope and Kristen Weaver. Officer Rakibur Rahman of the Greenbelt Police Department, City Manager Josué Salmerón and Maryland Senator Alonzo Washington were also present.

“It’s really encouraging to get responses from council, to know that things have actually changed, to know that somebody has listened,” said Wade, addressing the importance of the annual Open Forum. “The community matters to us.”

Armory Acquisition

Salmerón was pleased to make the announcement that the city has officially acquired from the state the Greenbelt Armory, located just west of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. This announcement, met with cheers and applause, came after complaints from the crowd that the Armory had gone unused and had been graffiti-littered for too long. The acquisition process, which began in 2021, should mean extra space in Greenbelt for businesses, offices or recreational purposes.

“This has been a long time coming,” said Jordan. “We’ve been trying to get ahold of it for about five years now.”

Career Firefighter Removal

The meeting was not all good news, however. Chief among concerns was the decision by Prince George’s County to remove career fire and rescue personnel from Greenbelt, which has resulted in staffing and response-time concerns. One member of the crowd called the decision “criminal” and asked the mayor to sue. Jordan, along with Salmerón, confirmed that the legal process was in motion.

“The county filed to dismiss,” said Salmerón, “but the good news is that the new judge denied the motion. Of course, this still doesn’t fix the issue.”

Crime

Crime was another big concern during the meeting, prompting Officer Rahman to address the crowd directly. Responding to concerns regarding crime rates around Beltway Plaza, he said that the police department is currently doing everything it can to monitor the area.

“Crime rates are up and down,” said Rahman. “We always try to get patrol officers out there.... We’re a few short right now, but we have four to five officers in field training and three in the academy.”

Schools

Rahman also discussed fears regarding high school truancy rates along with general safety concerns. He affirmed that the high schools in Greenbelt all have metal detectors, but had less to say on truancy.

“We try our best with attendance. We can’t force them to go back to school if they aren’t committing crimes. We can only tell the administration.”

This was met with a few murmurs of disappointment from the crowd. One audience member suggested that officers just put truant students in jail, but discussion on the matter concluded there.

Call 301-397-2208, ext. 4215 with questions.

Two menu options, one vegetarian, will be offered for each luncheon. All meals, which provide at least one third of recommended dietary allowances for older adults, include margarine, coffee or tea and skim milk.

CARES Needs Fund Donations

For the past three years, Greenbelt CARES has used federal American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) money to help prevent evictions brought on by Covid. The ARPA money ran out in October. Once again, it is up to Greenbelt residents to help our neighbors. Evictions have decreased since the pandemic but families still face eviction because of increases in rent, illness, death of a family member or a financial crisis such as expensive medical care or car repairs.

A recent poll shows that many persons do not have financial stability due to a lack of job security, no health insurance and decreased ability to save for a financial crisis.

The Greenbelt Emergency Assistance Fund continues to be that safety net for Greenbelters in a financial crisis whatever the reason. Those who are able can help by donating to the fund.

Make checks out to Greenbelt CARES, write Emergency Assistance Fund in the memo space and mail to Greenbelt CARES, 25 Crescent Road, Greenbelt, MD 20770 (or place in the secure drop box at that address). Or, go to GreenbeltMD.gov, click Pay Online at the top of the page and choose Charitable Donations. ## Leaf Blower Bans Gain Traction

by Melissa Sites

Voters are banning gas-powered leaf blowers in areas across Maryland, including Hyattsville, University Park, Takoma Park, Montgomery County and Annapolis, following a nationwide trend of banning the implement. Reasons voters have banned these devices include noise pollution, air pollution and detrimental effects leaf blowers have on the ecosystem.
Organizations that advise against gas-powered leaf blowers include the American Lung Association, which said in a 2023 press release, "Running a standard leaf blower for one hour generates the approximate emissions equivalent of driving from Denver to Los Angeles." Blowers emit exhaust from burned and unburned fuel, containing toxins and carcinogens, and send fine particulate matter airborne, including mold and fecal matter.
Noise levels of gas-powered leaf blowers hover around 80 decibels at 50 feet and higher for those closer to the machine. A 2022 article in the Sierra Club's Sierra magazine mentions how the noise "overwhelms all other sounds ... including music, conversation, the wind through the trees, or the songs of birds." The sound from one leaf blower travels several blocks.

The National Audubon Society argues that those who want manicured lawns should use electric blowers. However, the Xerces Society for Invertebrate Conservation, whose goal is to protect native bees and other arthropods, points out that leaving a thin layer of mulched leaves enriches the soil. Leaves also provide habitat for tinier neighbors, including chipmunks and squirrels.
Maintaining a lawn without the use of leaf blowers saves money and time. Waiting until leaves have fallen, and raking once or twice, is more efficient than constantly blowing leaves around. Tolerating a few leaves, except when leaf fall is heaviest, is better for the environment, the peace and quiet of the neighborhood and the wallet.

Should a Hiking Trail Be Built In Greenbelt East's Sunrise Tract?

by Bonnie Schrack

On Saturday, September 7, a small group of intrepid members of city council, the Forest Preserve Advisory Board and interested citizens ventured into and explored one of the least-known parts of the Greenbelt Forest Preserve, the Sunrise Tract, which lies between the Greenbelt Dog Park and the Beltway. Their purpose was to assess the feasibility and advisability of building a public trail there.

Fierce tangles of thorny green-brier vines, treacherous muddy slopes, discarded objects and a very high level of highway noise were encountered in the forest, which gave some participants pause when considering a trail.

The trail's advocates say that a trail could be routed around many of the ground-level obstructions, and others could be cleared. A trail through these woods would provide an opportunity for residents of Greenbelt East and nearby areas, as well as users of the dog park, to experience nature in a wilder form than in the managed parkland at Schrom Hills.

Greenbelt East resident Jessica Stewart says, "I've tried to hike the tract a couple of times but it is very muddy in places and there is no clear trail." One side of the tract borders the Hanover Apartments, which are outside the city limits though surrounded by Greenbelt on both sides. Stewart says that where these apartments come near the tract, "I can see that residents try to walk through the woods and in some spots made their own trail ... I think that if there were a trail that people would appreciate it."

Councilmember Kristen Weaver participated in the hike. She said that while she enjoyed having the chance to explore the out-of-the-way place, it is "very impacted by being next to the Beltway." She noted that "there are other areas of the forest preserve that have more advantages, such as being less intruded on by noise." She said safety aspects would also have to be weighed, since the tract is rather isolated. At the same time, she said, "there is value in providing the opportunity for people to have wooded trails they can easily walk to from their homes."

The next steps will be taken by the Forest Preserve Advisory Board, whose members will review the feedback they received from the walk and present some options to council. Council, says Weaver, will "consider the resources required to create a path there, and balance that with the potential for use of a trail by visitors, whether a trail there even makes sense from a broader perspective, and the opportunity cost of using those resources for this project rather than something else."

The degree of interest in having a trail through the Sunrise Tract is a significant factor in the decisions to be made. The most likely users of the trail are thought to be the residents of the neighboring apartments and users of the dog park. Dogs on leash would be permitted on the trail. Discussions of how to gauge interest among these potential trail users are still in the early stages.

Knowing that from its historic beginnings, Greenbelt has put a high value on having green spaces around us, Weaver sees "both organized sports fields and places where you can immerse yourself in the woods" as important. "We just have to consider whether this is the right place for a new trail, given the circumstances of the Sunrise Tract specifically."

Front to back, Bonnie Schrack, Silke Pope and Matthew Inzeo, followed by, not fully visible, Alec Armstrong and Emmett Jordan walk through the Sunrise Tract.

WANTED: Volunteer Board Treasurer for Greenbelt Farmers Market

Dear Greenbelt Community,

This October marks 8 years that Carissa Ralbovsky, our current Treasurer, has served on the board of directors of the Greenbelt Farmers Market. This community treasure is near and dear to her heart and she has loved working with a tireless team of volunteers and our outstanding market manager to help the market happen each week.

In 2025, Carissa is looking to support GFM in a smaller capacity. As such, we are looking for someone who can join the board as our new Treasurer and shadow her for the rest of this season, so she can provide training on how to manage the market's finances.

Experience with Quickbooks or accounting is not required, though some experience with finance and/or budgeting helps. Treasurer-specific duties only take an hour or two a month, and Carissa is committed to being an on-going resource for training and questions. If you are interested, please e-mail us at info@greenbeltfarmersmarket.org.

Your neighbors,

Scott Fifield, Terry Kucera, Greg Rusk, Carissa Ralbovsky and Suzette Agans (The Board of Directors of the Greenbelt Farmers Market)

Rally will be “a big party,” she said, with vendors, free food, free mammograms, free clinical breast exams, bra-fittings, dancing and lots of fun activities. If anyone is unable to make the event to get the walk-up services they can call 301-552-7724 to get assistance to come in another time, said Wilson. That number is for the breast and cervical cancer program, which will help uninsured people get qualified for free screenings and help for insurance benefits.

Hispanic Heritage

Next, Jordan read the proclamation for National Hispanic Heritage Month. The proclamation took the theme of Pioneers of Change: Shaping the Future Together, and praised the rich history and significant contributions of people of Hispanic heritage to Greenbelt’s culture.

Engine Replacement

Jordan read a request to replace the engine of a 2018 Chevy Tahoe assigned to the K-9 Unit at a cost of $14,753.17. The request was brought back to council after requests for further information, in particular from Councilmember Rodney Roberts at an August meeting.

Brian Townsend, assistant director of Public Works, described ongoing issues with the vehicle’s engine that mechanics hadn’t been able to solve.

Roberts asked a series of questions about the engine and advocated learning to fix it. Roberts cited his 50 years of experience as a mechanic and was interrupted by Jordan. “Mr. Roberts, we have professional staff ... the city manager, the assistant city manager, Mr. Townsend – they’re very capable,” said Jordan. “Stop cutting me off,” said Roberts, who continued to talk to Townsend over further objections from Jordan, who told Roberts he was insulting staff. “We need our employees to be able to learn and grow, and grow in their job,” said Roberts. Jordan tried to curtail his questioning and suggestions to fix the engine and Councilmember Kristen Weaver told Roberts he was being disrespectful. Roberts said he was not disrespectful and had a right and responsibility to speak.

“I think that you have been very disrespectful of our staff,” said Weaver. “Replacing an engine doesn’t seem like it is actually in their job description; maintaining it is,” Weaver continued, effectively ending the bickering with a motion to approve the request, which, she said, should have occurred at the August meeting. The motion passed 5 to 1, with Roberts opposed and Councilmember Silke Pope absent.

Upfitting Police Vehicles

Council approved the upfitting of five police vehicles by Frontline Mobile Tech, an approved city vendor, in the amount of $95,145. American Rescue Plan funding in that amount was already approved for the purpose. Chief of Police Richard Bowers explained that usually this amount is included in the purchase requirement of vehicles but was overlooked in the initial documents. The vehicles have been delivered and all that’s left is adding “lights, computers, internal equipment and all the other parts that go in the cars to make them emergency vehicles,” he said. The motion carried without opposition.

Moore Administration Sponsors Request For More Funding for SCMaglev Project

by Vicki Reynolds

The Maryland Department of Transportation (MDOT) posted on its Federal Discretionary Grants webpage under Pending MDOT Applications Under Active Consideration a grant application requesting funding of $7 million to further study the extension of the SCMaglev through Baltimore and up to New York City. The proposal, Baltimore-Washington SCMaglev Project – NEC Ridership Study and Environmental Benefit Review, was submitted May 24, 2024, in response to the Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) Notice of Funding Opportunity for the Fiscal Year 2023 to Fiscal Year 2024 Consolidated Rail Infrastructure and Safety Improvements Program FR Doc. 2024-06710.

The funding request describes the scope of work proposed as Baltimore-Washington SCMaglev Project – SCMaglev EIS Completion; the requested funds would be spent “reviewing ridership projections and conceptualizations for a right of way proposed between Washington, D.C., and New York City.” It lists the congressional districts that would be impacted. The scope of work would also include “a post-pandemic review of metrics for the Baltimore to Washington leg of the project, and would update the needs and opportunities taking into account the systemic changes in transportation challenges and opportunities post-Covid while developing the system as a whole.”

The requested $7 million for the study would be matched by $1,750,000 of non-federal funds. The proposal lists all previous federal funding grants or appropriations awarded to the SCMaglev project, which include awards to MDOT, with Baltimore-Washington Rapid Rail (BWRR) as the Project Sponsor, of $27.8 million in 2015, $24,027,500 in 2020, and $2,000,000 additionally from 2020 appropriations. BWRR provided approximately $7 million in matching funds for the 2015 grant.

Previous Governor Larry Hogan’s administration initiated the ongoing Environmental Impact Study (EIS) of the SCMaglev Washington-Baltimore segment and sponsored all previous grant requests. The Draft EIS (DEIS) was released for public comment in January 2021. Many government agencies from Washington, D.C., and throughout Maryland submitted comments expressing concerns and identifying deficiencies concerning a range of issues related to the project. Elected officials in two major jurisdictions along the proposed routes, Prince George’s County and Baltimore City, requested the “No Build” option, as did the City of Greenbelt. The FRA paused further work on the DEIS in August 2021, and it remains on pause.

Maryland Transportation Secretary Paul Wiedefeld, appointed by Governor Wes Moore, met with Greenbelt citizens on May 2, 2023. When asked about the status of the SCMaglev project, this newspaper reported his response as the SCMaglev will either proceed or be canceled, but nothing will be known until after the review of the DEIS is finished. The request for additional grant funding from the Moore Administration does state “the update will be completely outside the bounds of and have no interaction with the ongoing National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) work for that segment. (Washington, D.C. – Baltimore).” This funding request from MDOT is one of the first indications that the Moore administration intends to continue to support the allocation of federal funds to the SCMaglev project, despite the many deficiencies and concerns raised by government agencies and communities that remain unaddressed.

The request for funding can be located at mdot.maryland.gov/OPCP/Baltimore\_Washington\_SCMaglev\_Project\_Narrative.pdf.

ERHS Soccer Teams Navigate Rain, Bulldogs for Rival Victories

by Patrick Gleason

On a misty Wednesday afternoon in Bowie, the only thing more persistent than the precipitation was the onslaught of Eleanor Roosevelt High School girls' junior varsity goals, seven in total. Sophomore Alima Kargbo led the charge on September 25, tallying four goals, as the Raiders scored early and often. However, freshman Morgan Parks catalyzed Kargbo's performance, starting the scoring less than 10 minutes into the game. After firing a shot from near the top of the box, Parks followed the rebound – and reloaded – resulting in a well-placed shot past the outstretched arms of the keeper. The damp field did nothing to dampen the junior varsity's play, as Parks would later notch another goal, while sophomore Nora Marx joined the fun as well. The Raiders dominated from start to finish, using their depth to control possession, unfazed by the elements and the opponents.

Varsity

Afterward, the varsity squad yielded a similar result, though the method required more patience. From the outset, Roosevelt dictated the game's pace, rarely conceding possession; however, the goals did not come as quickly as JV's. A potent Roosevelt attack, spearheaded by senior Jada Savage, threatened the Bowie keeper throughout the damp first half. But after senior Sadie Swart missed a penalty kick for the Raiders, Bowie appeared to have new life. A scoreless first half seemed quite possible – that is, until senior forward Gabriella Martinez created something out of nothing. Martinez followed a harmless pass from teammate Claudia van der Have toward the goal as a Bowie centerback shielded the ball toward her keeper. But with a communication lapse, neither defender secured the ball and Martinez slipped in between the two at the last moment, toe-poking the ball into the back of the net, cueing an enthused celebration amid the early autumn humidity.

With a 1-0 lead, the Raiders refused to relent after the halftime whistle. Senior Alyssa Casey added danger to the wing opposite of Savage, continuing to tire the Bulldog defense throughout the second half. The Raiders struck again after freshman Emery Gregory sent a lofted cross into the box off yet another Roosevelt corner. Junior Autumn Freeman lay waiting to head it home; after nearly scoring in the same fashion earlier, Freeman made no doubt this time. Later, Savage capped the scoring for the Raiders, punishing a shot underneath the crossbar from the left wing. The final count: Raiders 3, Bulldogs 0. The cumulative 10-0 victory between the two teams provided the light that an overcast evening could not.

Funding Renovations

Despite the price tag, the cost is not set to break the city's budget. The lion's share of it is covered through Maryland's Program Open Space (POS), which matches local funding for public space projects with state funding by a factor of 10. In this case, the city puts forward $150,000 and Maryland will provide the remaining $1.5 million. $150,000 is still a significant investment, but it's small compared to other parts of the city's Fiscal Year 2025 budget: for example, the projected revenue from GAFC's daily admissions alone is greater, with $171,000 projected revenue from daily admissions for 2025.

POS Funding

The city has previously used POS funding to repave the parking lot for Buddy Attick Park as well as to renovate Greenbelt's tennis courts. In FY 2025, however, there are considerably fewer POS funds to go around in Prince George's County – $4.7 million as opposed to the $13.3 million the county had allocated for 2024. As a result, earlier this year there was an added rush to get "shovel-ready" projects approved while there were still funds available.

During its June 17 meeting, the Greenbelt City Council supported the use of POS funds on the pool renovation project, though not without some criticism. Councilmember Silke Pope wished that the plans kept the addition of a splash pad, which was in an earlier version of the plan, though she didn't see its absence as a reason to delay its approval. Councilmember Rodney Roberts took greater umbrage with the funding itself, saying that this use of the POS funds "is pretty pathetic." For Roberts, this construction project, like the parking lot and tennis courts before it, doesn't meet the original POS goal: to purchase and protect land. Still, because this project will be for public spaces, it meets Maryland's POS requirements.
